FROM WASHINGTON.

About Legal Tenders.—Defaulters and Bulldozers.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.

THE PULLMAN DEFAULTER FOUND.

A private dispatch has been received here stating that Angell, the Pullman car defaulter, has been found at Lisbon, Portugal.

LEGAL TENDERS FOR CUSTOMS DUES.

Secretary Sherman is considering the practicability of receiving legal tenders for customs dues even without any additional legislation. He is reported as having recently said that as soon as the legal tender is equivalent to a gold dollar he does not think that he should be violating the law to receive legal tenders for customs dues at Boston or to any of the ports where legal tenders cannot be redeemed for coin. He hopes to have resumption come into effect simultaneously at all the other money centres as well as New York.

JUSTICE FOR BULLDOZERS.

Judge Ray, of New Orleans, has been appointed Special Assistant United States Attorney to aid in prosecuting offenders against the federal election laws in Louisiana.

PERSONAL.

There is a report that the new Commissioner of Patents has declined to grant a patent to Edison for his last electric discovery.

The Secretary of War on the Army Bill.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.

Secretary McCrary, in speaking of the posse comitatus amendment to the army bill, states that much embarrassment has been occasioned to the government since it went into operation.

He expresses the hope that Congress will make such modification as will enable the proper authorities to execute the laws and collect the revenues where the civil authorities are unequal to the task, as in South Carolina, Arkansas and Texas. The Secretary, in his report, will call the attention of Congress to this question, and will ask a modification.

DISASTER AT SULLIVAN, IND.

Gas and Powder in a Coal Mine Blow up Together.—Thirteen Miners Killed and Others Seriously Wounded.

SULLIVAN, Ind., Nov. 21.

A terrible coal mine explosion occurred at Sullivan coal mine at this place today. The explosion was caused by the ignition of the flames of a lamp with gas, and terrific velocity was added by the fact of there being eight kegs of powder below. There were thirty men in the mines. Thirteen were killed outright, eight or ten wounded, and many others are suffering so from suffocation that their lives hang by a thread. The excitement is so great that it is impossible to yet get the names of the unfortunates.

Tom and Sam Handford, two of the proprietors, are known however to be killed. A great crowd of relatives, consisting mostly of women, is gathered around the ill-fated mine, and their lamentations are pitiful.

The Fraudulent Bankruptcy Case in Boston.

BOSTON, Nov. 21.

The case of Mr. Frank Paige, charged with conspiracy with his partner, Charles A. Stetson, to defraud his creditors, which was examined all day yesterday in the Municipal Court, resulted in Judge Churchill's decision, this forenoon, that Paige furnish sureties in $40,000 for his appearance before the Superior Court the first Monday in December.

ENGLAND WARS

IN ASIA AND AFRICA.

The Troops and Supplies in Motion.

LONDON, Nov. 21.

A special despatch to the Times from Calcutta says: "All the columns have been ordered to cross the frontier today. All despatches detailing movements or disposition of troops have been stopped by the military authorities."

The Globe Lahore correspondent says: "The British troops crossed the frontier this morning."

A special despatch from Thull to the Standard says: "The Tenth hussars crossed the frontier at 3 o'clock this morning. They found Fort Kapiyanga abandoned. Three children had been left there. General Robert's force at once moved forward on Fort Ahmedishams, five miles further up the valley."

IN SOUTH AFRICA.

LONDON, Nov. 21.

An order has been unexpectedly received at the Royal Arsenal at Woolwich for nearly one hundred tons of camp equipage for the army in South Africa. The stores are now embarking for immediate despatch. The consignment includes a great number of tents, blankets, barrack furniture utensils and other necessaries of the kind which were sent out for before the beginning of the Caffrarian campaign.

The Afghanistan War.

LONDON, Nov. 21.

A despatch from Bombay says: The Times of India publishes a dispatch from Thal, dated today, which announces that the British troops occupied Fort Kapion without resistance, the Afghans retiring hurriedly, the day before them. Fort Kapion, or Kapuyanga, is a station beyond the frontier line, opposite Thal, or Thul. Its abandonment or surrender was anticipated.

The British force at Thal, it is believed, is designed to march to the head of Khuram valley, drive out the Afghan force there and secure the highest point of the pass.

The Halifax Award.—Its Payment Today to Great Britain.

LONDON, Nov. 21.

Mr. Welsh, the United States Minister, today paid over to Her Majesty's Government the amount of the fisheries award, by a draft upon Messrs. Morton, Rose & Company for $5,500,000.

LOUISIANA FINANCES.

A Crash in State Consols Imminent. The January Interest Probably to be Defaulted.—An Impending Crash in Louisiana Consols.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.

A special from New Orleans today says: "The following exact figures show that a crash in State consols is imminent and will probably take place today. The amount due January 1st for consols is $813,715; appropriation to pay parish assessors, $15,000; appropriation to pay clerks and contingent expenses, $2500; board of liquidation appropriation, $4600; commission to tax collection estimated on the tolls of 1877, $21,780; interest due the fiscal year for money advanced, $2500; total due by the interest fund, Jan. 1st, $862,995; cash on hand, $357,735. The probable collections outside are estimated at $250,000 leaving a deficit of $251,260. Coupled with this is a ring which holds 1250 one thousand dollar bonds on a margin which has been carried by the Citizens Bank all summer. One of the ring men receiving certified checks to as high an amount as $160,000, with no funds in the bank. The backer of the ring is a heavy importing house, and a large stockholder in the bank, but even these enormous resources have been exhausted. Yesterday the ring stopped buying. The foregoing figures show conclusively that the State will be compelled to default on the interest in January. The fiscal agent is already largely a creditor. He cannot advance, and a heavy decline in State consols today seems inevitable. If the tumble should occur today it will ruin a number of institutions in this city, as the transactions in bonds has been altogether speculative.

Gambetta in a Duel.—A Probable Fight Today With a Bonapartist Ex-Minister.

LONDON, Nov. 21.

A dispatch from Paris, published here this afternoon, says a duel with pistols between M. Gambetta and M. de Fourton, the Bonapartist ex-Minister, arising from the words in the Chamber of Deputies on the 18th instant when the latter was unseated, will be fought today at the Hautes Bruyeres.

LATER—NEITHER COMBATANT INJURED.

PARIS, Nov. 21.

The report of a duel between M. Gambetta and M. de Fourton today is confirmed. They fought at thirty-five paces. Only one exchange of shots was had and neither was hurt.

Causerie of the Transcript says: In nothing is the extravagance of the age more plainly shown than in the furnishing and decoration of our homes. Our fathers and grandfathers, at a time when American industry was in its infancy, were satisfied to furnish their houses with home products, and if the best room had a carpet from foreign looms, it was looked upon as a bit of extravagance which only exceptional wealth could excuse. But in these latter days, when the products of American industry equal and in some cases excel the best that the Old World can produce, we are not satisfied unless we can make all countries pay tribute to our love of comfort and luxury. No rags of home make answer to our fancied need; they must come across the sea from Turkey or India. Unless our table covers show the skilled embroidery of France or the Orient, they are voted common. Our porcelain, to be prized, must come from far Cathay, or from France or Saxony, at the very least. No American stuff is thought good enough for our curtains and draperies, and Brussels carpets are not wholly satisfactory unless "real English." When it comes to ornaments and "bric a-brac," we ransack every quarter of the habitable globe, and the more outlandish the place whence it came, the more precious the "object" to its owner, irrespective of intrinsic merit or beauty. It is true that American work, especially in the direction of art, does not yet equal that of the older countries, and hence a natural preference for the latter; but to prefer foreign things simply because they are foreign, when the home-made article is just as good and far cheaper, is simply snobbish. Causerie recently saw some American cretonnes which in substance, design and finish were equal to the best that France ever produced; yet because they are American and offered at half the price of the French, they find little favor in the eyes of the wealthy.

The story of the famous sentinel of Pompeii, whom Mark Twain has introduced into his "Innocence Abroad," and whom Miss Harriet Hosmer is now embodying in marble, is a pure fiction. No skeleton sentry was found at his post with helmet and sword and spear, representing what was left of the once embodied Roman soldier who would not flee from his post of duty. The sentry box was a little tomb, enclosing in a vase a few calcined bones of one Marcus Carrinus, who, like all Romans, believed in cremation, and whose case had been attended to perhaps a hundred years before A. D. 79. The story was set afloat years ago by an Italian imitator of Edgar A. Poe, and, although refuted many times, still keeps afloat, still does duty in sermons, and has recently not only given inspiration to Miss Hosmer's plastic art, but has given inspiration to fine rhetoric in the London Times, as well as in its New York namesake.—[Rev. DIPHTHERIA.

Dr. J. O. Whitney, of Pawtucket, has a long article on this subject in the Chronicle of that town from which we make the following extracts at the request of our readers:

This disease seems to have prevailed in France more than in other countries, in epidemic form, and is called by the French peasants the "white sore throat," the membrane sometimes being whitish and very extensive, lining the entire mouth, throat, larynx, windpipe and nasal passages. Such a case as this I saw a few weeks ago. The disease may be divided into three classes as to severity, just as we class scarlatina, in the mildest form affecting only the throat, or if it extends upward into the nose, we may expect recovery. But if it extends from the throat downward into the wind-pipe and organs of voice, then we say the patient has croup, and the case is very dangerous; a few only recover from this state, because the patient dies of suffocation, hence the name given (in Latin) by Dr. Douglass, "Angina Suffocativa." Dr. John Ware, another Boston physician of note, wrote in 1843 upon membranous croup, and he says it begins in the great majority of cases in the throat and spreads downward to the larynx.

In the next class of cases of diphtheria as to severity, it may spread upward and downward, and then recovery almost never takes place; and if it spread upward only a fatal result may follow from a variety of complications. In the class of cases called malignant, or third class, like malignant scarlatina, or malignant small-pox, or malignant measles, recovery never happens. Diphtheria often begins with a very slight sore throat; hence all cases of angina should be at once attended to. But the most important of all is prevention; and to aid in this is my main object in writing for your paper. Fashion in physic is almost as much of a tyrant as in dress, and followed without regard to facts sometimes; and just now it is quite fashionable to have "filth diseases." There are many facts to prove that filth will make all diseases worse; thus what would be a mild case would, amidst filth, become a malignant and fatal one. We know enough as to the effects of filth to demonstrate that cleanliness is of the first importance. That filth alone will give rise to diphtheria, is of no great moment to your readers, and an array of the allegations pro and con would but confuse them. To fully understand the above statement, that filth makes all diseases worse—every one admitting that it indirectly increases disease—is all important. But definite exposure to cold will certainly give rise to diphtheria, and a full understanding of this should be had. If the indigent allow their children out of doors insufficiently clad, or the rich, following some fashion, do the same thing, the death rate from diphtheria will be swelled from both classes of society. Every case I have had this fall, with one exception, was most clearly traceable to a definite exposure to cold, and the filth causation not very appreciable in any of them. Hot weather gives rise to filth in a far greater degree than cool or cold weather; but what do we see, diphtheria the most prevalent in July and August, or as the cold weather approaches?

From 1863 until 1877, there was but little diphtheria; stray cases occurred called "sporadic," just as always have existed. But for a year or two past we seem to have been surrounded again by some intangible thing that specially determines a great many cases. This I insist upon, that during the prevalence of this influence, cases of diphtheria take place from definite exposure to cold that would not otherwise occur. If it appears to some physicians that filth alone will give rise to diphtheria, when the epidemic influence prevails, I am not disposed to insist that it will not, for practically we agree upon the great importance of cleanliness. I saw many fearfully dirty people between 1861 and 1876, but not a case of diphtheria, except the sporadic kind.

We see it in the three forms as to severity. Is it contagious? Not very much so. In the most putrid case I have seen this fall, four children under three years of age were about the patient for three days. A dozen or more adults were also exposed to all the danger there was, but not another case followed. Yet I always recommend, even insist, that only those required as attendants shall be about the sick with diphtheria. All the discharges from the throat and nasal passages should be carefully destroyed, for it has happened that from them the most pestilential cases appear to have arisen.

1st. That we have always had diphtheria among us, under the name of membranous croup.

2d. That from time to time it prevails epidemically, when we see it in a pestilential form, as a pestilence.

3d. That filth alone will not give rise to the pseudo-membranous disease, but will render it more pestilential.

4th. That definite exposure to cold will give rise to it at all times, and especially when the epidemic influence exists.

5th. That the pseudo-membranous disease has a counterpart in animals, and is known as the "pip" in fowls, observing in them the same general rules as to prevalence as in the human subject.

6th. That it is contagious, but not highly so, like small-pox, and that the main source of danger is contact with the discharges from the mouth and nose.

J. O. WHITNEY, M. D.

The table of the great Frederic of Prussia was regulated by himself. There were always from nine to a dozen dishes, and these were brought in one at a time. The king carved the solitary dish, and helped the company. One singular circumstance connected with this table was that each dish was cooked by a different cook, who had a kitchen to himself! There was much consequent expense, with little magnificence. Frederic ate and drank, too, like a boon companion. His last work, before retiring to bed, was to receive from the chief cook the bill of fare for the next day; the price of each dish, and of its separate ingredients, was marked in the margin. The monarch looked it cautiously through, generally made out an improved edition, cursed all cooks as common thieves, and then flung down the money for the next day's expenses.

The following anecdote is told to show the informal and domestic manners of the crown princess of Germany, and the rigid etiquette of the German court: One day, at a ball in Potsdam, the princess could not find the prince, and, meeting the empress, asked where her husband could possibly be. "I do not know where your husband is," said the empress, "but I can tell you where the crown prince is." The princess made no reply; but soon afterward, seeing her husband, she complained of the rebuke she had received. The prince bit his lips, and, walking up to the empress, said, "Mamma, will you be good enough to tell me where my wife is?"

PERSONALS.

.....Remenyi, the Hungarian violinist, has been received splendidly in Boston.

.....Defaulting Secretary Angel, of the Palace Car Company, is stated to be in Lisbon, Portugal.

.....A duel at thirty paces was fought in Paris, Wednesday, between Gambetta and De Fourton. There was only one exchange of shots, and neither party was hurt.

.....Mr. Yoshida Kiyonari, the Japanese Minister, left Washington Wednesday, for Japan, on leave of absence, after a continuous service in Washington of four years.

.....On the day of Miss Helen Astor's wedding to Mr. James Roosevelt she provided a feast for the patients in Bellevue Hospital. The fare comprised 900 pounds of chicken, 10 barrels of vegetables, 20 bushels of fruit, and a great variety of cake and confectionery.

.....Mr. Tilden and Miss Hazeltine met for the first time in their lives and were introduced at a reception at the Windsor Hotel, New York, given Wednesday evening, by Mr. Mackin, state treasurer of New York, and his bride whom he married in St. Louis a week since.

.....Mr. E. A. Sothern writes, under date of November 3, that the nature and extent of his indisposition have been somewhat exaggerated. His physicians advised immediate rest, because he was overworked, but he feels so much better that he will resume his provincial engagements.

.....George O. Crocker, of New Bedford, as executor of the will of the late Oliver Crocker, has paid over to the city for its Free Library $1000, and similar amounts to the Association for the Relief of Aged Women and the Orphans' Home, and $5000 to the North Congregational Society.

.....Daniel Clarke, a farmer of Tyringham, has probably one of the finest and most valuable collections of old and rare coins in Western Massachusetts. He has been over 40 years accumulating the cabinet of about 4000 pieces. He has a large number of Greek and Roman coins, some of them as early as 600 B. C., besides a fair representation from almost all the civilized nations.

.....The report that Admiral Paulding died possessed of great wealth is declared to be false. On the contrary, his estate consisted of a small and heavily mortgaged farm in Suffolk county, N. Y., (where he lived at the time of his death,) life insurance policies to the amount of less than $5000, and a few hundred dollars in cash. This was his entire estate after sixty-seven years passed in his country's service, and it was all given to his widow, now more than seventy years old, for her lifetime.

.....Judge Hilton says that it is due to the regular police of New York to say that they have refused to accept any remuneration for their services. He called the attention of the inspector to the fact that he was aware that most of his detectives were only receiving $25 per week, and that this amount would not justify any extra expense. "I have plenty of money," said Judge Hilton, "and if you want any you can have it, Inspector." "Not one dime, Judge." Both Captains McCullagh and Brynes have been tendered money by Judge Hilton—in one instance a check for $1,000—but it was refused.

.....Wagner can only compose with the assistance of suits of satin clothes of divers colors, which he dons and puts off according to the style of the thing at which he is working. For instance, when spinning off a pastoral duet he will array himself in primrose satin; when he comes to a martial chorus, quick he bolts off to his dressing room to don a pair of scarlet satin pantaloons, with tunic and cap to match. These delightful antics were made known to the public through the very distressing circumstance that the author of the "Tannhäuser" was sued by his milliner for the cost of his composing vestments, and was made to pay an extremely long bill.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

THE PRIMARY CAUSE OF A DISTANT SYMPTOM.

Nervousness is rarely a disease in itself inherent, but is the lineal offspring of dyspepsia, in a majority of cases. The nervous disturbance is at first trifling, but ultimately its parent so undermines the general health, as to produce consequences very threatening to that great nervous centre, the brain. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the most powerful medicinal opponent of the ravages of indigestion, and protects the nervous system from them. The tremors, the unnatural anxiety, the headaches, the sleeplessness and loss of appetite which characterizes digestive irregularity and weakness, and which are almost invariably accompanied by an uncertain condition of the bowels and inactivity of the liver, are all eradicated by this matchless corrective, and when nervousness does not proceed from the cause designated, it affords most grateful relief. nov13-1w-nkj

AN ASTONISHING FACT.

A large proportion of the American people are to-day dying from the effects of dyspepsia or disordered liver. The result of these diseases upon the masses of intelligent and valuable people is most alarming, making life actually a burden instead of a pleasant existence of enjoyment and usefulness as it ought to be. There is no good reason for this, if you will only throw aside prejudice and skepticism, take the advice of druggists and your friends, and try one bottle of Green's August Flowers. Your speedy relief is certain. Millions of bottles of this medicine have been given away to try its virtues, with satisfactory results in every case. You can buy a sample bottle for 10 cents to try. Three doses will relieve the worst case. Positively sold by all druggists on the western continent. Sold by James H. Taylor, Druggist. oct4 eod-nkj

The Newport Daily News and the Newport Journal.

The Newport Daily News is published every afternoon, (Sundays excepted,) at the News building, 13 Church street, by Davis & Pitman.

The Newport Journal is published at the same office every Saturday morning, and contains a selection of the best matter in the Daily, including editorial discussions of the topics of the week, literary miscellanies and at least one good story, the latest markets, and a complete and comprehensive summary of the news,—local and general. The Journal is a large, 32 column paper, and contains a large amount of reading matter that is valuable to readers in town or country who desire a good Newport paper, but who do not take a daily from this city.

Complaints regarding the irregular or improper delivery of either paper should be sent to the office at once.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

The Daily News, $6 per annum, or 12 cents a week, payable to carrier.

The Newport Journal will be sent to any address in the United States, postage paid, for $2 00 a year. A discount of 50 cents is made when the WHOLE YEAR is paid STRICTLY IN ADVANCE.

These terms are in variable.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Ordinary advertisements, $1 a square, for the first insertion, and 25 cents for each continuance. Ten lines or less, in this type, make a square. Advertisements in reading matter, are charged for, at 50 per cent. extra, and are subject to editorial revision. A discount on these rates is allowed on all advertisements ordered in the daily for one week or longer. Funeral notices 50 cents each. Yearly advertisers are limited to their immediate business and are allowed twenty five changes a year. The circulations of the News and Journal being necessarily distinct, an advertisement inserted in both papers will reach entirely different sets of readers. As further inducement for advertisers to use both the News and Journal, a liberal discount on the combined rates is made.

PRINTING.

Connected with the News is a large and well appointed job printing office. All orders for work in this department will be promptly filled, and at reasonable prices. The patronage of the public is respectfully solicited.

Newport Daily News.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1878.

6.12 inches of rain have fallen in this city from last Sunday at noon to 12 o'clock today, and the clouds promise us still more.

Judge Buckner, chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency says the National Banks have "invited a war" upon them by their attempt to overthrow the legislation of Congress.

The following has been received at this station: Since midnight a storm of great energy has developed on the Middle Atlantic coast. It is anticipated that there will be a very severe gale on the New England coast with northeast winds backing to northwest.

His Honor, Mayor Bedlow, has contributed one hundred dollars towards the paying of the expenses of the ball. It is expected that the whole sum will be raised by private subscriptions as there is little room to hope for a decision from the court allowing its payment by the city.

The prevailing opinion among New England politicians now in Washington is that Attorney General Devens will, soon after the assembling of Congress, receive the appointment of United States Circuit Judge, to succeed the late Judge Shepley. This is a life appointment with a lucrative salary, and is believed to be far more congenial to Judge Devens's taste than the position he now holds.

The time will undoubtedly come when we shall know who is elected to Congress from Florida. The Supreme Court now orders the canvassing board to count the good and valid votes in three precincts fraudulently thrown out by the Democratic canvassers. These precincts gave Bisbee, Republican candidate for Congress, 450 majority, and secure his election by 200 majority in the district. What will be the next move to defeat the will of the majority remains to be seen.

The American Exchange of New York, devoted to financial matters, strongly condemns the action of the Mutual Life Insurance Company and says the recent statement published in the newspapers as a communication though paid for as an advertisement "is a species of special pleading which does poor credit to the officers of an institution that boasts of most assets than the combined capital of all the banks in this city. It begins by asking: "Shall corporations shape and manage their own business, or shall their rivals dictate and manage it?" It would, however, have been much more pertinent to the question at issue if it had read: "Shall the members of a corporation shape and manage their own business, or shall their paid servants—the officers—dictate and manage it as their fancy may lead them, without respect to the wishes or the benefit of their employers?" Evidently the officers of the Mutual are smarting keenly under the sting of disgrace that follows their failure to hoodwink the public with a scheme so full of injustice to its members—a failure which they are disposed to ascribe to the efforts of rival companies that they accuse of clubbing together to control the press and to send paid emissaries to poison the minds of their policy holders by false statements, but which is altogether attributable to the wise discrimination of a thinking public, who have found a mouth-piece for the expression of their disapproval of the course of the Mutual in nearly every respectable daily journal in the country."

THE LIFE INSURANCE CASE.

The report that Col. Dwight, of Binghamton, had effected life insurance to the amount of $264,000 and then committed suicide seems to rest on a slim foundation. He is represented as a good citizen who in the days of his prosperity and the days of his failure carried life insurance to an enormous sum, to the amount of $100,000 and $200,000. When adversity got the better of him he could not carry his insurance, and took paid up policies. He went to Chicago, and again began to speculate and regain his lost fortune. He returned East last summer, and obtained insurance again upon his life to the amount of about $250,000, taking the sensible position that it was more necessary to keep his insurance up than it was when he was in better circumstances. It is held by the physicians who attended the gentleman in his last illness that he died of gastric fever, and the physicians have found nothing to sustain the views of the insurance men. It is not believed that the insurance companies can make a case on the man's death, though they may ⁴on the pulmonary homorrhages which he did not report when he obtained the policies. Before a correct opinion can be given as to the merits of the case the full result of the investigation of the real cause of Mr. Dwight's death should be known. A thorough examination of the circumstances by the insurance companies is now going on. They are acting independently, but each has the same end in view—to ascertain the facts if possible, and their doubts will be met by counter efforts on the part of the friends of the dead man, so that the truth ought to be elicited to the satisfaction of every one. It is stated that some of the Boston companies are satisfied and will pay up without a contest.

THE NEW EASTERN WAR.

The British Ministry after standing on the method for some time has finally gone to war with the Ameer of Afghanistan. The English troops have crossed the frontier and captured a defenceless fort though there has been no actual fighting. England is, of course, the stronger power and must ultimately succeed, but it may prove a costly job as their opponents are in their own country and are fighting for their homes and liberties. The Afghans are reported to be brave and hardy, and though but a semi-civilized race, they will have the sympathies of the whole world. The day has gone by when wars like this can be waged by the strong against the weak without meeting the condemnation of all the Christian nations. Even in England itself, a large portion are opposed to the course pursued by the Ministry, and it will not be strange if this feeling so far predominates as to compel Beaconsfield and his associates to retire from office at no distant day. In the meantime the advance of troops may awaken hostilities with Russia and lead to difficulties in many directions where they are now least expected.

MINING STOCKS.

Notwithstanding the many sharp lessons of the past concerning mining stocks a good many people are still disposed to speculate in them. As the Philadelphia Times well says it is evident that gambling is an exact science, safe and satisfactory in its results compared with speculation in Pacific coast mining stocks, and anybody who throws his money into such a whirlpool must be wonderfully anxious to feed the big fish that swim there.

We have all heard of the great rise in these stocks within the past few months and the excitement growing out of the fortunes made almost in a day. Of course sensible people know the bubble must burst as all bubbles do sooner or later. It has burst and everything that went up like a rocket during the summer and early autumn has come down like a miserable stick at the threshold of winter. There is no boom at all, unless it be that which will be made as they strike the hard and cold ground. One thing, which we suppose no sane man doubted before, is made glaringly conspicuous, and that is the utterly untrustworthy character of the mine reports, upon which opinions of stock values are supposed to be formed. These are manipulated at will by the select coteries who have control, and what appears to promise enormous richness one day is interpreted the next to mean exhaustion and ruin. In the present case much suffering must follow as about everybody in the vicinity of the mines had invested. As a result we shall hear of a few more men like Sharon, Jones, and Mackay, who have grown enormously rich out of the poor dupes who trusted their representations.

FOUR PER CENTS.

From an extended article in the Boston Herald we cull the following information regarding these bonds as being of interest to all classes.

The Maverick National Bank, of Boston, assumed the Government agency for the sale of the four per cents, about ten months since, being the first to introduce them to the people of New England, and since then they have sold many millions, orders coming not only from their immediate vicinity, but from all parts of New England,—this agency acting as the distributing medium for this section of the country, furnishing the banks largely, as they make a saving of time by ordering through them.

The four per cent. loan has over twenty years to run, and is regarded with favor on account of its permanency, as well as its absolute security, while its freedom from all taxation renders this four per cent. interest equal to five and one-half per cent. on any kind of investment.

The immense demand for them comes chiefly from persons holding trust funds and those having $100 or upwards to invest where they feel it will be safest and the returns surest. There are fifty small purchasers to one large buyer, and the former are altogether of the middling and working classes.

People have made a grand move in taking and holding for investment their own national debt, thus retaining in this country the vast amount of interest that would otherwise be paid to foreign capitalists.

The Maverick National Bank also does a large business in all other issues of Government loans,—and buy, sell and exchange any United States securities, either delivering to the parties' address, or in Washington—where many prefer.

So long as the right of the people of the South to self-government is made an issue in national politics, the people of the South will not, and in my opinion ought not, to allow any question as to currency to divide them.—[Senator Lamar of Mississippi.

That issue was in national politics until the spring of 1877, when President Hayes took it out, and we do not believe it will get in again right away. The right of the people of the South to govern themselves is recognized, nay, insisted upon, by the people of the North; but if the people of the South violate the laws of the country, and the laws are not vindicated by local sentiment, and the Democratic party winks at such violations, making no protest against them, the natural effect will be the punishment of the Democratic party in the North by leaving it out in the cold. This will not be done to interfere with the rights of local self-government in the South, but to show lack of confidence in a party that violates all the rights of one class of voters. Statesmen like Senator Lamar can do good service by telling the Southern people this fact.—[Boston Herald.

ROGERS HIGH SCHOOL LECTURES.—A course of lectures upon early English Literature will be given before the senior class of Rogers High School, on alternate Saturdays, by Rev. C. T. Brooks. The first lecture will be given at noon, tomorrow. Subject: "A Glance at the Morning Stars of English Literature." All interested are cordially invited to be present.

PORTSMOUTH.

The schools of this town close for their Thanksgiving vacation today and will not open until a week from next Monday.

The fishermen have made great "hauls" this season but the price is so low that the profits are small compared to some former years. Fishing constitutes quite an interest here and a considerable number of families are dependent upon its success for a livelihood.

A contest is going on, just now, in this city, as to whether several cases of sickness which have recently occurred in this city were diphtheria or croup. Six physicians have given it as their opinion that there have been no cases of diphtheria here since last winter. On the other hand, Dr. R. H. Rice asserts that he has doctored sixty four cases of the disease here and in Middletown since the 3rd of February, four of whom have died. Dr. Rice is not a little incensed at what he considers was intended for a slur upon him in the Daily News of Wednesday in regard to the matter, and now declares that he will treat no more cases of the disease except among his regular patients.—[Cor. Providence Press.

We trust there is some mistake about this. A physician who can cure sixty cases of genuine diphtheria out of sixty-four should not limit his attentions nor cease going about doing good. The Daily News has no desire to cast "a slur" upon anybody and trusts that its opinions backed up by so many regular physicians will not be so inter preted.

RETURNED. About two weeks ago a man named Henry Jones, applied at the police station for lodgings. He subsequently boarded with a woman named Mrs. Fitz. In some way sergeant Flynn secured information in regard to Jones, viz: that he was an escaped convict and he promptly informed the City Marshal of his suspicions and requested him to write to the Chief of Police of Providence. A telegram was received from Warden Viall of the state prison which proved that Sergeant Flynn was right in his conclusions. Captain Hammond and two officers went at once to Jones's boarding-house but the fellow had, like the Arab, quietly folded up his tent and stolen silently away. It was discovered that he had left town by the road and had two or three hours start. A team was secured and placed in charge of two officers, who succeeded in over hauling their man just before he reached Fall River. He was brought to this city and will be taken to Providence tomorrow where it is safe to say he will be more securely watched than before. The following in regard to the above matter appears in the Fall River correspondence of the Journal this morning:—

"About a month ago he was serving out a sentence, having been convicted on two complaints for assault and battery. He made his escape from the prison yard unobserved and took the train for Boston, where he remained about a fortnight. He afterwards visited New Bedford, and thence made his way to Newport where he has been staying for about a week. According to his story a colored woman, residing in the house where he has been staying at Newport, wrote to the authorities at Providence, informing them of his whereabouts. The Newport police, learning this morning that Jones had left that city for Fall River on foot, Garnett and Denman followed him by team and overtook him just as he was entering the city. They arrested him and lodged him in one of the cells in the Central Station, awaiting the arrival of the 5.25 train for Newport, when one of the officers carried him down. Jones was formerly an employe on the Neptune line.

CHARACTER DELINEATIONS.

Mr. Alfred J. Knight, in his historical impersonations and readings, formed the third entertainment of the Odd Fellows' Lecture Course which took place last evening.

The first part consisting of recitations, was delivered in a distinct and pleasing manner. His delineations of character from Shakespeare, in the second part were well received but the effect of "Mark Antony's oration" over the dead body of Caesar" was considerably marred on account of his forgetting his cue, and being obliged to leave out the latter part of the selection. Mr. Knight however, apologized in an excellent manner explaining that owing to the closeness of the hall he was obliged to exert himself considerably, and in thinking of that lost his part.

The entertainment closed with a selection from the Burlington Hawkeye and a humorous character selection, both of which were very funny and received considerable applause.

THE REIGN OF THE COMMUNE.

The lecture of Hon. E. B. Washburn at the Opera House on Monday night will be an especially valuable and interesting one. No person is better qualified to treat the subject than is Mr. Washburn. The press all over the country have contained most flattering criticisms from which the following, from the Philadelphia papers, are taken.

The reign of the Commune was graphically treated by ex U. S. Minister Washburne, and brought before the audience in such a thrillingly impressive picture as to produce the most profound silence and attention. The atrocities perpetrated during the ten weeks, when the Commune held high power in Paris, was characterized as a spectacle of cruelty, violence, debauchery and disorder without a parallel in the history of the civilized world.

The speaker dwelt frequently and with great earnestness on the arrest, imprisonment and death of the Archbishop of Paris. His tribute to the Archbishop's attainments and character, was a glowing one, and his description of the heroic prelate's death was very affecting, as was also his reference to the many other priests who were inhumanly assassinated just before the city fell into the hands of the government troops.

As a characteristic of the Commune, the speaker read a translation of the permit which he received to visit the Archbishop in prison whenever he desired to do so. In this paper, the United States Minister was called merely "Citizen Washburn," while the title given to the Archbishop, who had spent his whole life in doing good for the people of Paris was "the prisoner, Darboy."

The description of the destruction of the vendome colume, the plot to burn the cathedral of Notre Dame and the Palace de Louvre, the character of the ninety newspapers devoted to vulgarity and blasphemy, the unparalleled excesses of the leaders of the Commune, the battles for the barricade between the Versailles troops and the mob, the restoration of order and the final establishment of the republic, formed the most thrilling historical picture of modern times.

YACHTING NOTES.

We clip the following yachting items from the New York Herald of Thursday:

The steam yacht Lurline, having on board the owner, Mr. Pierre Lorillard, arrived at Norfolk, Va., on Monday. The Norfolk papers say that Mr. Lorillard has been spending some days in hunting and fishing on the York and Virginia rivers.

Schooner yacht Intrepid, N. Y. Y. C., Mr. Lloyd Phœnix, is at the yard of Messrs. Poillon, Brooklyn, and being fitted for a cruise to the West Indies.

Schooner yacht Josephine, formerly the property of Mr. Lloyd Phœnix and then of the Messrs. Poillon, has recently been sold by the latter to parties in Mexico, and will be despatched to that coast when she has been thoroughly fitted out.

Sloop Addie Voorhis, formerly the property of Mr. Cornelius Roosevelt, has been sold to parties in Boston.

Schooner yacht Ambassadress, N. Y. Y. C., Mr. William Astor, left this port for a cruise in Southern waters late on Tuesday afternoon last. Mr. Astor is on board.

Schooner yachts Idler, N. Y. Y. C., Mr. S. J. Colgate, and Wanderer, N. Y. Y. C., Mr. James Stillman, were removed from Stapleton basin to the foot of Court street, Brooklyn, on Saturday last. The rumor of the reported sale of these vessels has no foundation.

Messrs. Pierre and Jacob Lorillard each contemplate building a new steam yacht the coming winter.

Sure enough, there were enough fools in Iowa to hold Congressional elections in six of the nine districts in November, after the great body of voters had done the work very effectually in October. It was a Democratic dodge to form the groundwork of contests, and a good many Republicans were silly enough to help the thing along. The result was the so-called election of two Democrats besides the two Greenbackers who were successful in October and of two Republicans, leaving three vacancies. This is all very well for sport, but if the Democratic House of the Forty-sixth Congress were to attempt to seat anybody on the strength of it they would find it about the worst of the many investments in which they have taken stock in the course of a long and disastrous career. The mention of Iowa in 1880 would be enough to make a Democrat sick.—[Phila. Times.

Persons desiring pressed autumn leaves for house decoration or other purposes will be interested in an advertisement in another column.

TIVERTON.

THE MENHADEN FISHERY.

The menhaden fishing interest and the manufacture of menhaden oil and guano form a branch of industry rapidly increasing in magnitude in Tiverton, R. I. As this is a comparatively new business, its importance is not fully realized. There have been manufactured into oil and guano by factories situated on Narragansett Bay this season 230,000 barrels of menhaden fish. The market value of the product is $110,000, and as the only expense is the labor of the fishermen, a large proportion of the amount has been distributed among them and in consequence a large number of fishermen are able to present themselves at the bank with checks for considerable amounts.

The State of Maine menhaden fleet, belonging in Tiverton has arrived home for the Winter. There are three companies: The St. George Oil & Guano Co., with two steamers; Joseph Church & Co., with eight steamers; Albert Gray & Co., with four steamers, and the combined invested capital is about $350,000. They have manufactured 260,000 barrels this season; market value $225,000. This is only a moderate catch, as a school of barracudas drove the menhaden 100 miles east of their usual grounds in July. Those barracudas weigh 30 pounds each and are very ravenous and destructive. The bluefish also preys upon the menhaden and a school of the latter fish is often accompanied by other enemies. An official estimate of the number of fish destroyed upon the southern coast of New England by the bluefish alone during their stay places the number ten thousand millions every day.

The manner of capturing the fish is thus described:

When a school is discovered a steamer towing two boats, in which the seine is contained, sets out for it and approaches as near as is judged safe without alarming the fish. The seine, if a first-class one, will be about three hundred fathoms long, and twenty fathoms deep, and in the form of a long strip or bandage, corked at the upper border and leaded at the bottom. The ends of this are taken by the boats and then carried around the school—a task requiring vigilance, patience and skill—and brought together. Upon this being effected ropes attached to the sunken border of the seine are hauled in and draw the net to a focus, closing it at the bottom and confining the fish. The number caught varies from one barrel to a thousand. Fourteen hundred barrels have been taken at one time. The steamer now comes alongside the seine and a steam dip net taking three or five barrels at a time, sets at work discharging the seine at the rate of four to five hundred barrels per hour.

THE TROUBLE WITH SOTHERN.

His memory has gone. He will speak to you earnestly of a special subject one moment and forget it the next. After a conversation the other night with Chevalier Wykorf and his agent, Mr. Wall, he suddenly left the room, and on returning introduced these two gentlemen, each to the other, as though they had never met. During his recent tour in the country he was continually complaining of certain members of his company that they did not know their parts. At last, when Mr. Wall came to inquire into the matter, he found that it was Sothern himself who had forgotten his lines. He could not remember his most familiar roles. Thereupon Mr. Wall sent for Sothern's own doctor, Mr. Simpson, who at once pronounced it dangerous for him to continue the exercise of his profession. This was at Birmingham; whereupon an announcement was made to the audience that Mr. Sothern had been taken suddenly ill and could not act. The eminent comedian went straight to London, where Dr. Jenner, the queen's physician, was called in. He declared that Mr. Sothern must have perfect rest for six months. Dr. Jenner said any attempt at work might be fatal. I saw Sothern driving to his chambers early in the week, a little before or after this consultation. He looked at me vaguely, as if we had never met (I made his acquaintance in the early days of Dundreary), and signalled the cabman to go ahead. I was in a hurry and did not attempt to stop him; but the vague, strange look occurred to me at once when I heard of his trouble.—[London Letter to New York Times.

GLEANINGS AND GOSSIP.

The first public rehearsal for the first concert of the Philharmonic Society of New York takes place at the Academy of Music this afternoon.

A Bowery, New York, photographer's unpunctuated sign reads: "This style 3 pictures finished in fifteen minutes while you wait for twenty-five cents beautifully colored."

The New Haven Holly Tree Coffee House, operated by the United Workers, has served over forty-eight thousand meals during the year, besides four hundred given for charity tickets.

Mrs. Eliza Thompson, who died in New York this week at 104 years of age, had stood all the attacks common to humanity for over a century to be at last run over by a cracker wagon on Broadway and killed.

THE "DAYLIGHT STORER."—The Telegraphic Journal and Electric Review, an English periodical, claims to have received the following ironical communication, which, it says, "may have an important influence on gas shares":

Dear Sir—For ten years I have been haunted by the idea of discovering a means of general illumination which will be within the reach of the poorest, and explode gas forever. When I conceive a problem of this kind, I never rest until I solve it, and consequently I have never rested for ten years. The other day, while pacing my garden walk in the twilight, pondering this subject, I spied a glow worm in the grass, and involuntarily, I cried out, "Eureka!" The idea had at length burst upon me. It is this. I prepare a phosphorescent salt of lime, which by day absorbs light, and by night gives it forth again, in a soft, diffused glow. I cause the walls of each room in a house to be coated with this salt for domestic illumination, and I enact that all the houses lining a street be whitewashed with it, so that as darkness comes on the whole city, outside and in, shall be self-luminous. In this way I store up the light of day and enable every man, for a few pence yearly, to be his own gas works or his own electric light. The hideousness of night is banished and burglars are unknown. I have patented this process in every civilized and uncivilized country, notably Africa, where, I imagine, the negroes will want to apply it to their persons. The nature of the salt will be revealed in due course.

The work of preparation for the completion of the Washington Monument is now going on briskly. Extensive workshops and other buildings have been constructed around the monument, and large quantities of material to be used in strengthening the foundations have been received upon the grounds. An enormous quantity of material will be required for the concrete, which will be placed under the monument during the winter. The new foundation of concrete is 17½ feet lower than the bottom of the present foundation. The contracts for this material require 2500 cubic yards of pebbles, 1500 cubic yards of sand, 2000 yards of broken bluestone, and 2500 barrels of Portland cement. The lumber already purchased amounts to over four thousand dollars. A large mast will be erected inside the monument, on which will rest the derrick which will be used in laying the marble when that work is begun in the spring. A stairway of wood is to be constructed on the inside of the monument, the steps to be in flights of twenty-five feet rise, alternating on the north and south sides of the interior. An elevator is to be introduced when the monument is completed, and the monument will then be thrown open to visitors. While the work is in progress, stated days will be set apart for visitors who wish to ascend the monument as far as it is completed.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

The court came in at two o'clock. The indictment against John Shay for obstructing an officer was put on trial. Mr. Sheffield appeared for the defence, and put in, on behalf of his client, the like objections to the proper constitution of the grand jury who found the indictment, as had been previously put in, in two other cases in the morning, and which the court again overruled. The trial then proceeded.

Mr. Sheffield commenced his plea for the defence at 4.10, concluding at 5 o'clock, when Mr. Attorney Hopkins made a very close and excellent argument for the State, concluding at six o'clock, when Judge Burges allowed the jury to separate until nine o'clock Friday morning.

FRIDAY MORNING.

The court came in at nine o'clock this morning, and, after some preliminary business, the Judge charged the jury in the above named case, quite at length on the important points involved, and they retired for a verdict at 10 o'clock.

James Fogarty, indicted for an assault upon Officer Albro with a dangerous weapon, was this morning arraigned and plead guilty, and he was thereupon sentenced to three months in the Providence county jail. The like motion was made in his case, and he was committed to jail having no surety.

Mr. Baker, counsel for Thomas Cooney convicted yesterday upon an indictment for obstructing an officer, put in a motion to the court on behalf of his client for an arrest of judgment on the ground that the indictment set forth no allegation that Capt. Hammond is an officer empowered to serve warrants, and no evidence to that effect had been offered to the court. The Judge said he would hear his motion this afternoon. Cooney is in jail.

At 11:30 the jury in the case of state against John Shay came into court with a verdict of guilty. Mr. Sheffield moves for arrest of judgment and Shay gave bail in the sum of one hundred dollars for his appearance when wanted.

The indictments against Thomas Carroll and Sarah L. Horse, both of Tiverton, for keeping a liquor nuisance, were, on motion of their counsel, Mr. Hathaway, of Fall River, continued to the May term.

The indictment against Daggett the colored cook of the H. Burnett, is nol prossed for informality, and he is held on the warrant upon which he was arrested, until March term of Supreme Court. Committed for want of bail.

The court at the hour of one o'clock was engaged in the trial of the case of William Williamson against James Dowling and another, and at that hour was adjourned to two o'clock this afternoon.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

Consumers should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine growing district of France. And old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few pennies more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much farther and works so much better, that its economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, wholly without eggs, and that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by Physicians everywhere.

Dr. S. DANA HAYES, State Assayer of Massachusetts, reports after making an analysis of Royal Baking Powder,—"That the materials of which it is composed are pure and wholesome."

The "Royal Baking Powder" is taking the place of Soda, Saleratus, Cream Tartar and Yeast, on account of its Superiority, Convenience, and Wholesomeness. SOLD ONLY IN CANS

EXPECTATION.

We rode into the wooded way;
Below us wide the shadows lay;
We rode and met the kneeling day;
We said, "It is too late;

"The sun has dropped into the west;
The mountain holds him to her breast—
She holds and hushes him to rest,
For us it is too late

"To see the leaf take fire now,
To see, and then to wonder how
The glory pauses on the bough,
While pauling grass-tops wait."

Whoo, lo! the miracle came on,
A roadside turn—a moment gone—
And far the sun low lying shone;
The forest stood in state.

Transfigured spread the silent space;
The glamour leaped about the place,
And touched us, swept from face to face.
We cried, "Not yet too late!"

But one, who nearer drew than all,
Leaned low and whispered: "Suns may fall
Or dash; dear heart! I speak and call
Your soul unto its fate,

"Tread bravely down life's evening slope,
Before the night comes, do not grope!"
Forever shines some small, sweet hope,
And God is not too late."

—Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, in Harper's for December.

DOMESTIC MATTERS.

Look out and do not let the window plants get touched with frost.

A Massachusetts chemist examined twelve jars of pickles put up by different wholesale dealers and found copper in only ten of them, and a scientific journal states that not more than half the vinegar now sold is rank poison.

PICKLED NASTURTIUMS.—Nasturtiums are the easiest of all pickles to make. Pack them down in a liquid made of pale vinegar and salt. They require no boiling or other preparation. Use one and a half ounces of salt to a quart of vinegar.

BATTER AND APPLES.—Apples are cheap and healthful, and here are a few ways of preparing them for the table: Pare and core six apples, and stew them for a short time with a little sugar; make batter in the usual way, beat in the apples, and pour the pudding into a buttered pie dish; the pudding, when properly done, should rise up quite light, with the apples on the top; to be eaten at table with butter and moist sugar.

A REMEDY FOR BED BUGS.—A correspondent writes to the British Medical Journal as follows: "The best remedy for bugs in hospitals is a bug-trap made by boring a series of holes in a piece of wood with a gimlet and placing this under the mattress of each cot. The piece of wood is to be placed periodically into a basin of boiling water. This is an Indian hospital plan.

GOLDFISH require great care, as they are very susceptible. A loud noise, strong smell, violent or even slight shaking of the vessel they are in, will often kill them. Small worms, such as are common to the water, suffice for their food in general; but the Chinese who bring goldfish to great perfection, throw small balls of paste into the water of which they are very fond. They give them also lean pork, dried in the sun and reduced to a very delicate powder. Fresh water must be given them every day.

A WARNING.

Prof. Wilder, of Cornell University, has done a great service to humanity by patenting what he calls a "kerosene warning tag," to be attached to all packages of that fluid. On its reverse side he gives these timely hints as to the proper use of kerosene oil and lamps: "Buy the best oil. The lower priced varieties are apt to be more volatile and explosive. Have your lamps securely hung. Select those in which the end of the burner is elevated considerably above the body of the lamp. Lamps to be carried should be of metal, have handles, and be of some safety pattern. Fill the lamps by daylight and never while lighted. If obliged to fill them at night, have the light at least a yard off, and not in a current of air. Lamps should be filled daily, and never when partly empty. Never carry a glass lamp lighted. A lamp with the wick turned down is more liable to explode. Keep the can closed and in a safe place. Never pour oil on the fire. If burning oil gets upon the floor, smother with a woolen blanket, rug, carpet or clothing. If the clothing takes fire, wrap a blanket or rug about the person, or roll him upon the floor."

She was baptized Anna Eliza, and often she sighed that her name was not Maud Ethel or something of that fine sort.

"What's the matter with Anna Eliza?" asked her plain, matter-of-fact mother one day.

"The matter is," replied the dissatisfied daughter, "that so long as I bear my present name I might as well carry my heart on my sleeve. Everybody discovers my secrets, my inmost thoughts are seen at a glance by all with whom I come in contact."

"What on earth do you mean?" inquired the astonished mother.

"I mean precisely what I say," answered the daughter between her sobs. "Every friend and acquaintance I have find it easy to Annelize me."

The mother's heart was not touched, but judging from the way she reached for her slipper the girl was.—[Albany Journal.

A Complete Fertilizer.

The success of the Complete Fertilizer, made up on the basis of wood ashes, has been such as to call for the preparation of a much larger quantity for present use. One farmer who had half a ton last spring, now orders ten tons for grass and fall sowing. Others are also calling for it in larger quantities and I shall have a supply ready for delivery on or before September first. It is especially adapted to pasture and grass, and now is the best time to sow it for next season's crop. None of the ingredients are wasted and the bone, potash, etc., will be in soluble condition for the desired effects early next spring.

The fertilizing ingredients in this preparation are obtained at less price than in the best leached ashes at 15 cents a bushel, and the mechanical action on the soil is equally good.

Farmers or Gardners who desire further particulars of its composition, can obtain the desired information by sending for a circular. It is sold mixed at less than the retail price of the several ingredients, and every article used in making it up is subjected to analysis to determine its purity. Price $40 a ton.

INSURANCE

AGAINST LOSS BY FIRE

CAUSED BY

ACCIDENT, INCENDIARISM, LIGHTNING,

Or any Other Cause.

I REPRESENT the oldest company in America, and also the largest company in the United States, together with other standard American and European institutions. The Ætna of Hartford alone has paid over $15,000,000 in losses, and has now $7,000,000 assets in hand.

Insurance in such companies, with ample means, and an established reputation for fair dealing, is worth much more than in any of the numerous weaklings that totter along for a while and then go down. About fifty such companies have failed during the last year, and as many others are on the way to ruin.

The rates in these first-class companies are no higher than in the small and doubtful concerns.

Farm property taken very low for three or five years.

All losses settled at this office. For terms call on, or address by mail the undersigned at the office of this paper.

We state not so much an opinion as a fact, that will become apparent to any disinterested person who compares it with other papers, when we say that, for all residents of Newport county and all persons who have moved out of the county but wish to keep posted regarding affairs at their old home, the best paper without exception

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

Great Through Line

AND

UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE.

The attention of the traveling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.

CONSTRUCTION AND EQUIPMENT

The Safety Appliances

in use on this line well illustrate the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed

THE BLOCK SYSTEM of SAFETY SIGNALS,

Janney Coupler Buffer and Platform,

THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,

AND THE

forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

Are run on all Express Trains

From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,

To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis, and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.

WITHOUT CHANGE

The Scenery

OF THE

PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE

Is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty, and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form
